2nd CGS Summer School

“Society and Nation in Transnational Processes in Europe”

16.-21.07.2013, Toruń (Poland)

The topic of the Summer School develops interdisciplinary approaches to elementary fields of politics, society and international relations in a comparative perspective.

The nation as an organization form of modern societies will be the main point of interest. Therefore, its necessity as a bearer of civil society structures as well as the justifiability of its existence in the processes of internationalization and globalization will be inquired. The aim of the project is to contribute to a comprehension of the complexity of social and transnational development as well as to reveal its movement and communication patterns.

The topic will be discussed in four topic groups:

1. Civil Society Contours of Nation
2. Ideas (Dis)continued: Historical Roots of Modern Society
3. The Process of European Integration and the National Model
4. Cultural Identities and National Pattern/Foreignness and Migration

Every participant of the Summer School will be actively working in a discussion group under the guidance of CGS fellow. The fellows will deliver the preparatory reading.

The results of the event will be published in a reviewed volume of the “CGS Studies” scientific series, at the Cambridge Scholars Publishing House (the UK). Every participant will be invited to deliver a paper related to the topic and inspired by the event.
